

Vermont Captive Insurance

Brittany Nevins

Captive Insurance Economic Development Director

State of Vermont

Agency of Commerce & Community Development

One National Life Drive, 6th Floor

Montpelier, VT 05620-0501

Phone: 802-398-5192

Brittany.Nevins@Vermont.gov

As Captive Insurance Economic Development Director, Brittany is responsible for the marketing and business development of Vermont's captive insurance industry, working closely with the Department of Financial Regulation and Vermont Captive Insurance Association to strengthen the state's reputation as the premier onshore captive insurance domicile.

Within state government, Brittany advises Vermont's Governor and Secretary of Commerce on new captive insurance legislation and policy recommendations to assure a beneficial business environment for expansion and relocation within the state. She also works closely with Vermont's congressional delegation, monitoring policy pertaining to the regulation of captive insurance and related financial services industries.

Brittany worked in the fields of community and economic development in the nonprofit and governmental sectors in both Vermont and Texas serving technology, solar, health care, and child care industries. Most recently Brittany worked as a Policy Specialist for Texas Long Term Care Regulatory Services and managed Travis County's Economic Incentive Program, supporting businesses and furthering the County's comprehensive economic development goals.

Brittany received a MA in Sustainable Development with a concentration in Policy Advocacy & Analysis from SIT Graduate Institute and a BA in Political Science from the University of Vermont.

The 2022 Captive Review Power 50, which recognizes the most influential professionals in the global captive insurance industry, named Brittany "One to Watch."

Brittany received Captive International's FORTY Under 40 award in 2023, an award which identifies the best and brightest young talent in the captive insurance industry.